ABOUT NEPAL FOODS

Throughout the years, Nepalese people have been living as an expatriate around the world. Despite being away from their motherland, the authentic taste of home was always missed by many. Products which were available in the market did not meet the satisfactory standard of the consumers, due to the lack of good quality and packaging with mandatory labelling. In order to fulfil their cravings people started bringing food from Nepal during their visit, which would then be confiscated.

In 2018, Nepal Foods took the initiative to fulfil the taste of home by importing products from Nepal which were great in quality and the consistency reflected by premium packaging.

Nepal Foods sourced the best products available from different parts of Nepal, packaged them neatly and got it imported into the UK to distribute. At that time, the concept of premium packaging in Nepali market was inconceivable. Nepal Foods faced many challenges due to the cost being slightly more expensive in comparison to other Nepali brands which were available in the market.

Despite those challenges, Nepal Foods persevered and has become a very well-known brand in every Nepali household here in the UK. Today we market around 118 products, sold in over 12 countries. Nepal Foods aim is to cater to all those Nepali consumers living around the globe and to allow international consumers to explore the gastronomic history of Nepal.

The tourism sector of Nepal has seen a phenomenal growth in international tourist arrivals over the years. In 2018, Nepal welcomed around 1.7 billion tourists and food is becoming an integral part of the tourism. Nepal Foods aims to cater these tourists once they return home.

Since the establishment, Nepal Foods has insisted only on the best quality products to correspond to international standards from the packaging to the quality of products being delivered.

All our pickles are made from the best ingredients and all our products are processed in a hygienic environment through procedures, meeting the international standard of quality.

For the last few years, Nepal Foods has been known as the taste of home here in the UK and many other countries which all the Nepalese count on. Today, we move forward with pride and joy to ensure our products reaches all Nepali and international consumers around the globe, making them feel at home- Nepal.

WOMEN EMPOWERMENT

Nepal is a highly patriarchal society. Women have restricted access to education, employment and are confined to household chores. Many Nepali women have become accustomed to being treated inferior to men. Men are seen as the “breadwinner”. However, women are now determined to break that stereotype and contribute to the family income to create gender equality.

Nepal Foods aim is to empower women to break that gender inequality by increasing Nepali women’s access to employment. All our employees are women who were either uneducated or have been subject to domestic violence. Our aim at Nepal Foods is to provide them a safe and secure workplace which allows them to become self-sufficient and financially stable.

OUR TEAM IN NEPAL

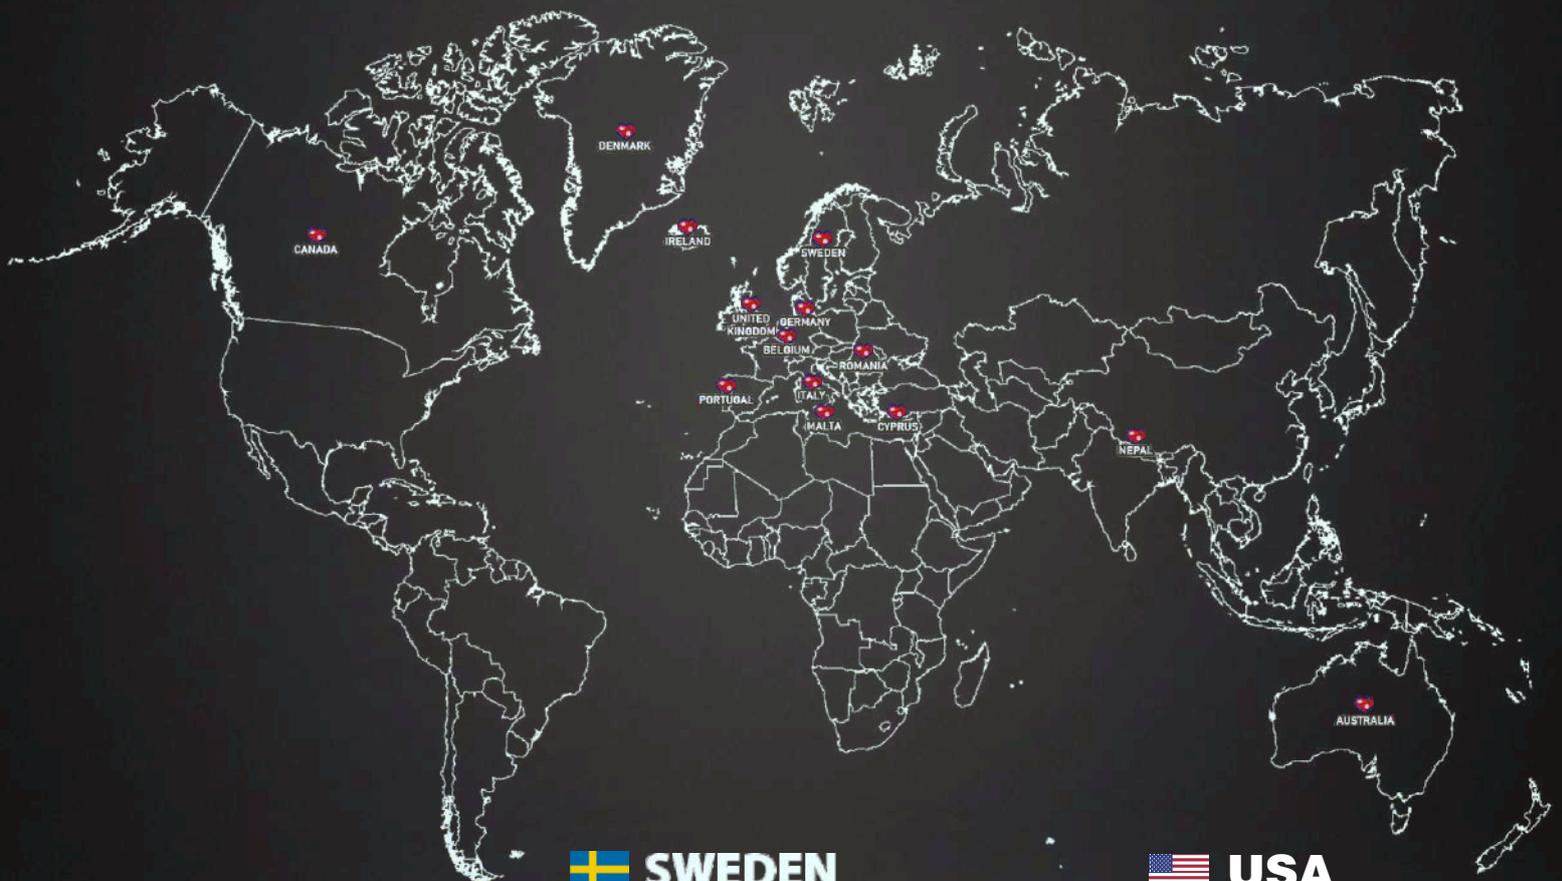

Many farmers in Nepal are illiterate, their only source of income is through agriculture. The lack of scientific knowledge of farming and not having access to modern tools makes it harder and lessens productivity.

To support the farmers and to acknowledge their effort, Nepal Foods Foundation was created in 2019. The aim of Nepal Foods Foundation was to make a difference in farmer life by providing basic human rights such as access to healthcare and education for their children. Also, to give access to modern tools to make their farming easier and to increase productivity.
